Over 90,000 preventable Black deaths a year!

DYING WHILE BLACK is a singular achievement. Professor Randall produces the "smoking gun" connection between white privilege, racism, slavery and Black health outcomes. This book combines careful documentation of the past and a plethora of data with deft, compelling storytelling. The result is a nuanced, forward looking narrative that not only provides evidence of what's wrong and why, but offers a concrete proposal for what we can do now to make a difference. This book is mandatory reading if we are to ever get beyond blaming the victim and setting our sights on the systemic change we so desperately need.
